DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-5 and 8-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Sakanashi et al (JP 2001-201851 in view of its machine translation).

Sakanashi et al disclose a UV photosensitive composition that may be used to form patterns in forming relief images, wiring boards, etc, that comprises a thioxanthone initiator ([0015]), a binder, polymerizable compound that may comprise multiple ethylenic unsaturated bonds, a solvent, and additional known resist additives such as leuco dyes. The material of the reference is sensitive to light in a wavelength range meeting the instant claim limitations. In the examples, it appears that the binder, polymerizable compound, and xanthone compounds are all present in amounts along with the thickness of the layer to fall within the scope of the instant claims 1, 8 and 9. The material is coated onto a substrate, exposed to form a pattern, developed, then used as an etch mask to etch underlying layers and/or substrate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sakanashi et al in view of Wolf et al (7,148,382).

Sakanashi et al has been discussed above, and teaches that multiple photoinitiators may be employed (examples), however, the reference fails to specifically teach the use of a compound as claimed by claims 6 and 7.

Wolf et al disclose acylphosphine oxides and their use as photoinitiators. Compounds disclosed by the reference meet the instant structural limitations of the instant claims 6 and 7 (column 37 and examples).

Given the teachings of the references it would have been obvious to employ the known photoinitiators of Wolf et al in the material of Sakanashi et al.

Claim Objections

4. Claim 6 is objected to because of the following informalities: It appears that the compound of claim 6 is included with the required xanthone compound of claim one, therefore the claim should read in line 2 that the initiator also contains or further contains. Appropriate correction is required.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. All of the documents listed on the disclosure statements submitted by applicant are particularly relevant, and may be cumulative to the rejection of record.
